GNAC News & Notes

CHAMPIONSHIPS RACE TAKING SHAPE: With two weeks left in the regular season, there is plenty of action before the field for the GNAC Championships are determined. The season-ending tournament takes place May 4-6 at Saint Martin's University in Lacey, Wash.

The only team that appears to be a lock for a tournament spot is Central Washington. At 18-2 in conference play, the Wildcats could lock up their spot in the championships with at least two wins in it's four game series with Saint Martin's.

Both Central Washington and Northwest Nazarene enter the week with eight GNAC games remaining. Thanks to rainouts, Saint Martin's has 10 games remaining while both Western Washington and Western Oregon have 12 games remaining. All five teams are alive for GNAC Championships berths with conference records over .500.

Montana State Billings and Concordia are also alive for potential postseason berths, but will need some help to get into the championships. The Yellowjackets sit at 8-12 in GNAC play while Concordia is 6-14. Both teams have eight games to play.

ABOVE AVERAGE: Eight GNAC players enter the week with a batting average of .400 or better (among those who have met the minimum of 2.5 at bats per game). Of those eight, half of them are ranked among the NCAA Division II top-50 in the category.
