WEEK 10 PREVIEW

The PFL's three unbeaten teams will square off against one another during the season's final three weeks. First up is the Week 10 match up between Butler and Dayton. Meanwhile, Drake, the league's other unbeaten, hosts PFL first-time winner Campbell. Valparaiso seeks its season's first PFL win at Jacksonville while Davidson heads cross country to visit San Diego. Elsewhere, Marist steps out of PFL conference action to host former Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference conference foe Georgetown. Morehead State will get the week off after nine straight weeks of action.

Butler, one of the FCS's last unbeaten teams, travels to Dayton, the league's nine-time champion. Butler survived its Week 9 scare from Davidson and has won its five league outings by just 31 points (6.2 ppg). Dayton also survived a scare from San Diego last week but has won its five league outings 88 points (17.6 ppg). Butler has won its three road trips this season while Dayton is 3-1 at home after a season-opening home loss.

Valparaiso seeks to end its six-game losing streak with a visit to Jacksonville. The Crusaders have not scored more than two touchdowns in any of their PFL outings, including being shutout at Marist last week. The Dolphins scored more than 30 points for the third-straight contest, but surrendered a season-high 45 to Drake in last week's loss.

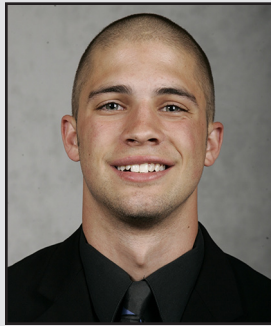

Marist steps out of PFL play in Week 10 to host Georgetown. The two were members of the former Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference Football League from 1994-99. Marist has won the last two meetings in Poughkeepsie (2001, 2007), but has needed overtime in both instances.

Fresh off its first-ever PFL victory, Campbell takes to the road to visit Drake, the league's third unbeaten team. The Camels needed a come-from-behind effort to down Morehead State for its PFL victory last week. Drake won a shootout with Jacksonville last week and is unbeaten at home (4-0) this season.

Davidson makes the trek from North Carolina to California to square off against San Diego. Both teams bring three-game losing streaks to the contest. The Wildcats dropped a 14-7 decision at Butler while the Toreros dropped a 21-14 decision at Dayton. San Diego has lost two straight at Torero Stadium (1-2) but Davidson has not won a road contest this season (0-4).
