WEEK 11 PREVIEW

The PFL's two remaining unbeaten teams will have to buck history if they are to stay unbeaten following Week 11. Butler hits the road to face a Jacksonville squad it has not beaten in four tries. Drake closes out its home schedule against a Dayton team that has won the last six meetings in Drake Stadium. Elsewhere, Marist looks to extend its win streak to six games with a visit to Davidson, San Diego ends its PFL slate at winless Morehead State and Campbell visits Valparaiso for the first time.

Butler enters Week 11 as one of just two FCS unbeaten squads but will have to post its first-ever victory against Jacksonville to remain perfect through 11 weeks. The Bulldogs survived a Hail Mary at Dayton to win in Week 10 but saw its average margin of victory fall to 5.7 points in PFL play this season. The Dolphins rebounded from their second PFL loss with a home victory against Valparaiso in Week 10 and boast the league's top-scoring offense, averaging 35.7 points per PFL game.

Marist has quietly won five straight contests, including its last four PFL outings, and travels to Davidson which has won two of its three PFL outings at home this season. The Red Foxes extended their win streak with a non-conference victory against Georgetown but scored 23 points, the fewest in any of its six victories this season. The Wildcats ended a three-game losing streak with a victory at San Diego, scoring a season-high 34 points, and return home where they are 2-2 this season.

San Diego will close out its PFL schedule with a trip to Morehead State. The Toreros have battled quarterback injury woes all season and enter Saturday's contest with a four-game losing streak after falling to Davidson in Week 10. The Eagles took Week 10 off and will seek its season's first PFL victory but will need to win for the first time in its series against San Diego.

Campbell makes its final regular-season road trip when it visits Valparaiso. The Camels have not won on the road this season, a streak lengthened with its loss at Drake last week. The Crusaders are seeking their season's first PFL victory after falling at Jacksonville last week despite posting 20 points — its third outing 20 or more points this season.

Dayton, freshly knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten, will seek to rebound when it travels to Drake. The Flyers dropped its first PFL contest to unbeaten Butler last week but travels to Des Moines where it has not lost in its last six visits. The Bulldogs won their sixth-straight contest by downing Campbell in Week 10, scoring a season-high 49 points — the second straight week they have scored more than 40 points.
